YOUTH ADMITS SHOOTING TWO

Father and Step-mother Slain 'Because They Quarrelled,' He Says.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Breaking down after hours of grilling, Ralph Eddy, 17, today confessed to the murders of his father and step-mother "because of their constant quarrelling over little things," police announced here this morning.

The alleged confession of the youth was made to Chief of Police John Britton, following his capture late last night at Dunbar, near here. The youth had been hunted since September 11 when the bodies of his parents, the Rev. James Frank Eddy, 40, and Mrs. Bertie Eddy, 33, were found at Trace Fork, a small community located 40 miles from Charleston.

Begrimed with coal dust and his clothes tattered and torn, Eddy was apprehended last night by two men who recognized him from newspaper pictures.

When he was brought before Chief of Police Britton, the youth defiantly refused to talk. Finally, however, he broke down under a barrage of constant grilling and declared in an oral confession, Britton said, that his parents had quarreled constantly and "it got on my nerves."

Relating the boy's alleged confession, Britton said Eddy told how he awakened at 3:30 o'clock the morning of the slaying and crept to his parent's bedroom and put the muzzle of a shotgun against his father's head.

Mrs. Eddy awakened and ran screaming from the room, according to the story, and the boy shot at her "once or twice" and then followed her to a field near the house where he beat her with the gun.

OF JUVENILES

Groups of Boys and Girls Loitering on Streets After Night Make Pathetic Situation.

(AN EDITORIAL)

A situation exists in uptown Circleville that should be corrected.

Numerous complaints have been heard of the great number of juvenile loiterers who frequent the business district especially on Sunday evening. Groups of boys and girls, none of whom are more than 16 years of age, are found huddled together on street corners and in store vestibules. Apparently the practice, or habit, whichever you care to call it, has been continuing unmolested for quite awhile.

"No loafing" signs have been placed in and about the City building, at the instigation of the County Board of Visitors, but these signs, too, are unmolested.

It seems that police, and juvenile officers, or whoever is responsible for the young people of the city, would take some kind of action to break up the practice. The situation was an exaggerated one Sunday evening with pedestrians forced to elbow their way through the groups, even in front of the City Hall.

CAR STRIKES POLE, BURNS

Chillicothe Negroes Narrowly Escape Injury; Machine Demolished.

Two Chillicothe negroes miraculously escaped serious injury early Monday when their automobile struck a telephone pole then turned over and burned. The accident happened opposite the residence of Hack Stevenson, 1295 S. Court-st at 5:45 a. m.

The fire department was called to the blaze but the car was completely burned before firemen could administer aid.

Jerome Russell, driver of the car and an employee of the Atwell Motor Co., Chillicothe, suffered cuts on his left hand, and Harold Graham, 380 Western-ave, Chillicothe, was unhurt.

It is believed the occupants went to sleep.

The automobile rolled 25 feet before catching fire.

Officers McCrady, Smith and Fitzpatrick investigated the wreck.

ATHENS, Oct. 18.—Investigation was started today by Coroner L. E. Jones into the death of a 12-year-old girl and the injury of four of her chums when they were struck by an automobile as they were walking along a road near here yesterday.

Richard Kennedy of Amesville, driver of the car that plunged into the group of girls, was called to appear at a coroner's inquest. Two other men who were in the car with Kennedy also were called to testify.

The dead girl is Helen Child, 12. She was killed almost instantly when she was struck by the car. Her sisters, Margaret, 14, and Ethel, 6, were injured. Margaret suffered a fractured skull and her condition was reported serious at a hospital here.

Reasons Given for Germany's Withdrawal Claimed Invalid

REGRET EXPRESSED

U. S. Seeks to Continue Important Session

GENEVA, Oct. 16.—The reasons given by Germany for her precipitate withdrawal from the disarmament conference were ruled invalid today by the general commission, which then voted to adjourn until October 26.

The commission formally approved a letter written by Arthur Henderson, chairman of the conference, for communication to German Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin Von Neurath.

The letter expressed regret over Germany's withdrawal "for reasons which I cannot accept as valid." The reasons were listed as follows:

1. That the conference cannot achieve its desired results.
2. That heavily armed nations are solely to blame for Germany's withdrawal.
3. That it is impossible for Germany to attain her much-desired arms equality under present circumstances.

GENEVA, Oct. 16.—The United States wants the disarmament conference to continue despite Germany's abandonment of both it and the League of Nations.

This was revealed today as the official American position as expressed in a letter sent last night by Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador at large, to Lord Cecil, confirming a message sent by President Roosevelt to a disarmament demonstration over which the British League of Nations leader was presiding.

The letter was motivated by a polite query from Lord Cecil as to whether President Roosevelt still wanted his message read in the face of German withdrawal.

In his letter to Lord Cecil, Davis stated that the message in question had been received before Germany's withdrawal, and that had it been sent after this event it doubtless would have been worded somewhat differently.

NO REASON TO STOP

"I see no reason, however, to suggest that the message be recalled because while Germany's action may alter the situation and make the task more difficult, solution of the disarmament problem is in my opinion of such vital importance that it must continue." (Continued on Page Two)

STATE TO ASK WELFARE FUND

Four Millions For Building Welfare Department Buildings Asked.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Plans of the state welfare department to ask for funds to finance a $40,000 building project, the money to be repaid over a period of years, will be ready for submission to Washington next week. Darrell Jones, assistant state welfare director, said today.

Should the plan be approved it will provide funds to complete a building program of the welfare department that has been lying dormant for several years due to lack of funds.

Jones said the program calls for the construction of an institution feeble-minded at Apple Creek consisting of an administration building and a number of cottages. The project would entail an outlay of $1,000,000.

Funds will also be sought for the erection at the Delaware Industrial School for Girls of two cottages at an estimated cost of $300,000.

Other building projects to be financed by federal funds include the addition of four cottages to the Hawthorned Farm, Cleveland State Hospital, at a cost of $400,000; erection of two cottages at the Dayton State Hospital at a cost of $300,000, and $500,000 in new buildings and improvements at the Athens State Hospital.

Underwood met with the committee last Tuesday.

Mr. Immell arrived home from Louisville late Saturday and has conferred with a number of his supporters. He announced Monday that he would make a public statement not later than Tuesday concerning his stand.

His resignation was asked after Mr. Underwood declared the office had failed under Mr. Immell's supervision and that the region of which he has charge comprising Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana ranks lowest among the twelve in the nation in dealing out assistance to harassed farm owners.

Presnell Thorn In Boston Side

With Glenn Presnell, late of the University of Nebraska, leading a well-directed attack, the Portsmouth Spartans tossed back the Boston Braves at Boston, Sunday, by a 13-0 score. Twenty thousand fans witnessed the game which was featured by Presnell's individual performance.

He threw a 45-yard pass to Cavosie for Portsmouth's touchdown in the second period, booted the extra point from placement, then added two field goals in the third period to give the Ohioans their margin.

Musick's fumble early in the game took away Boston's only scoring opportunity.

Chicago's Bears by scoring a field goal and safety in the final period defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 12-9, Sunday. Joe Lillard, colored flash, put the Cardinals on front in the second period with a 50-yard dash for a touchdown. He then placekicked a field goal to make the half end 9-0 in his team's favor.

A touchdown by Johnsons on a pass from Molesworth, Manders' field goal and Lillard's safety gave the Bears their edge. The game was the Bear's fourth victory with no defeats.

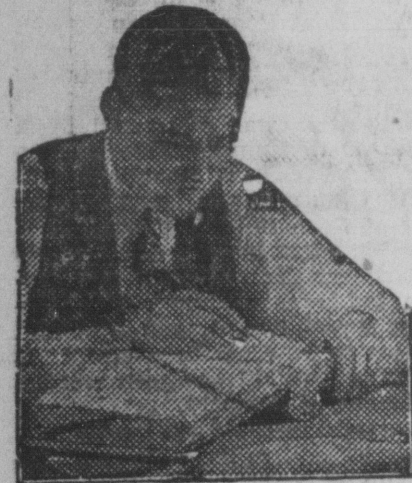

An effective passing attack gave the New York Giants a 56-0 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, Sunday, at New York. Harry Newman did nearly all the heavy lifting.

Benny Friedman and Shipwreck Kelly combined efforts to turn back the Cincinnati entrant, Sunday, by a 27-0 count. Kelly ran 70 yards for a touchdown while the other three were results of Friedman's bullet passes.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

A FOOTBALL game that may decide the Buckeye association football title for this season is scheduled at Athens, Saturday, when Ohio university and Miami university meet in what should be a momentous battle. Both teams have run up big scores against weak opponents and both have put up good games against Big Ten foes.

Last year the Oxford boys coached by Frank Wilton, protégé of Pop Warner, knocked the Ohio U. title chances into Frank Wilton Jr., Don C. Peden a cocked-hat at Oxford, but the game is played this year at Athens which puts a different outlook on the affair.

At this time, this column is going on record favoring the Miami team for the reason that the Wilton outfit is practically intact from 1932. Roudebush, Robinson and Fertig are in the backfield, Emerick and Stewart are at the tackles, Ott and Kerekes are at the ends and the center of the line is again strong. Ohio lost a number of good men at the end of last season but according to scores so far this year, Coach Don Peden has another great team.

portance that every effort should be made to achieve it," the letter said.

"The struggle for disarmament must be on a covenant that won't be treated as a scrap of paper."

Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, in an address before delegations to the world peace organization declared:

"It cost 10,000,000 dead and 20,000,000 wounded to bring the league into being.

"It won't break peace with the dead. It won't suffer hope and peace to be killed. It won't let the world be plunged into the barbarism of another war."

Henderson's address was meant as an answer to German's withdrawal, but it failed to place blame entirely on Germany.

"The world situation is grave," he declared, "precisely because the governments delayed too long to reduce armaments."

"As long as nations are free to arm and use arms as they see fit, wars are inevitable."

BOUND TO REDUCTION

He insisted the conference was already bound to an effective reduction and abolition of offensive arms and said that for this reason the world possesses the beginnings of a collective peace system based on the league covenant and the Briand-Kellogg pact.

The government which rejects this is encouraging its citizens to regard war as inevitable, he declared, asserting that "international anarchism" in all countries are identical with those who believe war inevitable.

It was learned reliably, meanwhile, that Premier Mussolini will soon propose a five-power conference, first sounding out the various governments as to their views.

The move is anticipated Thursday or Friday if adjournment of the disarmament conference is pronounced today.

Mussolini is expected not to suggest a meeting place, but it is believed he would accept any other Swiss city.

BUCKEYE TEAM PREPARES FOR MICHIGAN TILT

Ohio Had Easy Time With Vanderbilt While Kipke-men Drub Cornell.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—The serious business of preparing his charges to meet the team he considers one of the strongest in the country occupied Coach Sam Williamson of Ohio State University today as "Michigan Game Week" opened.

"We realize we're meeting a team that hardly knows the meaning of the word defeat, a team that's only lost one game in the last 30," Williamson said today.

The Buckeye mentor, true to his customary practice, had no predictions about the outcome of Saturday's game at Ann Arbor, except that it would be a real battle and one of the big games in the nation this week.

The Buckeye Squad was expected to be given a chance to take it rather easy this afternoon, particularly Gullman and Padlow, lettermen at the end positions, who were "pretty well used up," Williamson said, in the game against Vanderbilt Saturday.

USED STRAIGHT PLAYS

Ohio State, using straight football, displayed plenty of power in defeating the fighting Southern team 20 to 0. The stubborn Vandy line fought for every inch, and twice an Ohio ball-carrier swept around end for a touchdown.

Jack Smith made Ohio's first touchdown in the first quarter, following a long Ohio drive down the field. With Vanderbilt tacklers cleared out of his way by Quarterback Carl Cramer, Smith circled the Commodore's right end for 18 yards and crossed the goal line standing up.

The two other Ohio touchdowns came as results of breaks occurring in Vandy territory. A hurried kick by the Vanderbilt punter placed the ball in Ohio's possession on the visitor's 20-yard-line and on the third down Cramer carried the ball 13 yards around end for the second marker.

CONRAD ON BALL

In the final quarter, Sam Drakulich, Ohio quarterback, intercepted a Vanderbilt pass on Ohio's 30-yard line and carried it 61 yards to the six-yard mark before the final gun ended the game.

While Ohio State was busy avenging its 26-21 defeat at Vanderbilt's hands two years ago, Michigan, flashing a colorful running attack, piled up a 40 to 0 victory over Cornell at Ann Arbor. Capt. Stan Fay, started as quarterback, led his team in the six-touchdown victory and solved Coach Kipke's problem in finding a field-general for the Wolverines.

NEW RULING AID TO CIDER MAKERS

Beverage is Not Taxable is Put in Loosely Corked
Bottles, Jugs

A bottle with a loose cork in it is not sealed. This is the essence of a ruling of the Tax Commission of Ohio that permits the tax-free sale of apple cider in unsealed bottles or jugs.

"Beverages" in sealed containers are subject to a tax of one-half cent on each six ounces of liquid content.

Following a hearing of Ohio Fruit Growers' Association representatives before the Tax Commission of Ohio, it was decided that cider for sale in sealed bottles is taxable.

A sealed bottle was defined as a glass container or other container of a shape and form capable of being closed, stopped, or corked by means of a metal cap, or crown, or any other stopper or device to prevent the escape or entrance of gas.

But a container closed by means of a cork alone is not, by the Tax Commission, considered sealed if the stopper is designed to be removed by hand without breaking or manipulating a special device or covering.

Growers of cigar leaf tobacco in the Miami River Valley this week are receiving checks from the treasury of the United States. Approximately six million pigs between 25 and 100 pounds, and 200,000 sows soon to farrow, were purchased and slaughtered under the emergency hog marketing program which ended September 29. About 30,000,000 or 90 per cent of the gross cost of the marketing operations, were placed in the hands of farmers for the live hogs. A half million farmers sold pigs and sows in the five weeks of the marketing plan. Requests from Washington economists do not agree that shifting of wheat and corn land to pasture and cover crops will increase the production of milk and meats. They say such a shift will lower production.

"Records from various parts of the country," they say, "show conclusively that land in harvested grain and forage crops produces at least twice as much livestock feed as the same land in pasture."

"Since 1890, farmers have reduced the acreage of grazing land 10 per cent and increased acreages of harvested crops 50 per cent. This increase in cultivated land has been largely responsible for increasing production of pork and milk about 50 per cent."

In Gotham Mayoralty Battle

Following the dramatic entrance of Joseph V. McKee into the New York Mayoralty race, the greatest three-cornered battle in the history of the metropolis is predicted by political observers. In one corner is Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany incumbent, who succeeded to the turbulent throne of former Mayor Walker, after McKee had served as acting Mayor for two months. Opposing him is Major Fiorello LaGuardia, former member of Congress, who was defeated by Jimmy Walker in 1929. LaGuardia heads the Fusion ticket, sponsored by Judge Samuel Seabury, inveterate Tammany foe. McKee, in the third corner, opposes both as representatives of different brands of "Bossism," which he promises to eliminate from city government as independent candidate, unfettered by any "leader or party of leaders."

With Warnings Ignored, Eagle's Talons Tighten

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—The nether portion of the Blue Eagle is symbolic of the penalties provided for in the National Recovery Act, as demonstrated in the case of Theodore G. Rahutis, restaurant man of Gary, Ind., first to be deprived of the NRA insignia.

H. S. Norton, chairman of the Gary Compliance Board, reported that every one of Rahutis' 40 employees sustained in affidavit form repeated charges that he was violating both the maximum-hour and minimum wage provisions of the President's Agreement he had signed. One employee was required to work 21 hours in 2 days at 14 cents an hour.

REFUSED CONFERENCE

On August 31 he was notified by the local board that "there must be some misunderstanding on your part of the agreement as modified for the restaurant business."

He failed to respond to an invitation to a conference and according to the board, complaints kept pouring in from his employees. In his absence, another notice was handed to Mrs. Rahutis and a third and final formal warning was served on him personally, which read in part: "We hope you welcome this opportunity to make a voluntary statement. If complaints are unfounded, they should be disposed of, so there is no doubt as to your right to the Blue Eagle." All notices were ignored.

National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's telegram to Rahutis said in part: "Even if complaints are not true, your refusal to come forward with some explanation when respectfully asked to do so by your local board indicates you are unwilling to co-operate with the President in his recovery program. Therefore, you will immediately cease displaying the Blue Eagle and surrender any NRA insignia in your possession to the postmaster of Gary. You will refrain from using the Blue Eagle in advertising or otherwise."

Following the first disciplinary action, telegrams were sent to Miss B. Wilmer, proprietor of the Crystal Beauty Shop, and Maurice Rapaport, manager of the Shop-town Market, both of New Rochelle, N. Y., ordering them to surrender their insignia to the postmaster instantly and to make no further display in any manner of the Blue Eagle.

BOOSTED PRICES

Affidavits filed with the compliance board of New Rochelle stated that the owner of the beauty shop had increased prices to her customers 50 per cent, attributing the increases to the NRA, but had actually increased her overhead by only $2 per week, bringing the wages of her two girl employees to $9 per week. The board reported various charges against Rapaport. One affidavit charged him with compelling an employee to work 12 to 13 hours daily during the week and 16 to 17 hours on Fridays and Saturdays for $16 a week. The board had been unable to secure any cooperation from either Miss Wilmer or Rapaport and their findings in both cases were acted upon very promptly by the National Recovery Administration.

Infection of Wheat

During the threshing of the wheat the sick kernels break and the smut spores from them have started many a dust explosion. In any event they stick to the outside of the healthy kernels and with them are planted for the next wheat crop, which is infested thereby from the start.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

Four hundred and fifty thousand persons walk daily on Forty-second street, according to a bulletin issued recently by the Forty-second Street Property Owners' and Merchants' association. Those who walk on midtown's principal east and west arteries do so from choice, however. Twenty-seven thousand vehicles travel it each day. It is crossed by seven subway lines, four elevated lines, five bus lines, eleven surface lines and on it are four railroad stations. At the west end it is possible to take Hudson river and Sandy Hook boats and excursion boats to almost anywhere, as well as the Weehawken ferry. It even has a subway of its own, the shuttle line connecting Grand Central and Times Square, which carries hundreds of thousands of passengers each day. Repeatedly plans have been submitted for a moving sidewalk between those two points. Still, the 450,000 daily workers are a mere handful. In the space of 12 months, the association reports 242,230,244 tickets for buses, boats, trolleys, subways and elevated lines were sold on Forty-second street.

A million persons, the association figures, live within walking distance of Forty-second street. Counting those who get there by cars and busses, the total is 2,500,000. Within a radius of 100 miles, the population is 12,000,000. Fifty-two thousand persons are employed on Forty-second street and 5,000,000 persons are fed there each year. Forty-second street merchants sell almost anything. Forty-second street is only about 10,500 feet long but it connects New Jersey and Long Island. Taking it all in all, it's quite an important street. In the eyes of the association, at least.

Here's where I score a scoop on the association—at least no mention was made of it in the bulletin. On Forty-second street are a number of theaters. Business being what it is, owners are turning a tidy penny by renting the lobbies to pitchmen. The rentals, according to my informant, run from $300 to $500 a month. Forty-second street attracts a lot of idlers. Pitchmen do the rest. They work hard and fast, since a rental of $500 a month necessitates a big take. Experts all of them, if there is a dime in the pocket it usually can be extracted.

Like to listen to a high pitch. A high pitch, as explained by my guide, is one where the pitchman gives a more or less learned lecture of more than the usual length. The high pitches indicate considerable education, acquired possibly not in college, but in one way or another. Anyway, they sound learned. Words are cleverly used and the art of suggestion is most highly developed. A touch of mystery is added to the most prosaic subject. The high pitchmen are expert psychologists also. They can size up a crowd in an instant and rarely make a mistake. So dimes come even from unwilling pockets, the rent is made, and so are profits.

Sitting on Europe's Powder Keg

The recent assassination attempt on Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, in which the statesman received two minor wounds, might have been the spark to ignite the blaze of another war in Europe, as did the assassination of the Archduke Francis and his wife, in 1914. At no time in its history has the continent been so ripe for war as at present. Chancellor Hitler, at the head of Nazi-ruled Germany, hurls defiance at France with one hand, while seeking to drag Austria into the Reich with the other. France is armed to the teeth and ready for trouble. In Italy, Premier Mussolini gives moral and material support to Dollfuss in his war against German Nazi propaganda, and even peace-loving Holland is preparing to defend her frontiers against a feared German invasion.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

Men and women whose work and play demand healthy nerves and level heads prefer Camels. Active people agree that they can smoke these fine-flavored, milder cigarettes without fear of jangling their nerves.

Another thing about active people—they are pretty generally steady smokers... And, as anyone who smokes Camels will tell you, you can smoke as many of these cigarettes as you want—and never have a "cigarette" aftertaste. The last cigarette at night tastes as good as the first in the morning, if you smoke Camels.

Try a package of Camels today... Enjoy the superior flavor of their costlier tobaccos. If you are a steady smoker you will appreciate the fact that Camels never get on your nerves, never tire your taste.

DENSMORE SHUTE—Britons gasped and gaped when he won the 1933 British Open over St. Andrews' deceptive fairways and angry bunkers. Golf prophets say Shute will line up with Golf Immortals. Answering a question, Shute recently said: "I have tried all the brands, and long ago found that Camels are milder, and what is even more important to any golfer, they do not jangle the nerves."

GENE SARAZEN—This great golfer began his winning ways in 1922 when he became U. S. Open Champion. He has been a consistent tournament winner ever since. This year he won his third P. G. A. Championship. On the subject of cigarettes Sarazen says: "I agree with Shute and Armour—I smoke Camels, too. They always taste good—and they never interfere with my nerve control."

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. You will find Camels rich in flavor and delightfully mild.

President's Secretary Phones To Quash A. F. L. Nazi Boycott

WASHINGTON—The resolution putting American labor on record for a boycott of German Nazi goods caused a greater row in the convention of the American Federation of Labor than almost anything else.

John P. Frey, member of the Executive Committee, and Matthew Woll, vice-president, vigorously opposed the resolution, said it was an affront to Germany.

President Bill Green, with John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, fought for the resolution, said the Nazis had killed organized labor in Germany.

In the middle of the fight Marvin McIntyre, secretary to President Roosevelt and a colonel on the staff of the Governor of Kentucky, telephoned to say that the Administration opposed the resolution. A boycott on German goods would be extremely embarrassing to the State Department, McIntyre said, might upset Nathan Davis' disarmament negotiations.

Later, the anti-Nazi camp queried the State Department and got this reply: "The Administration has no interest at all in the matter."

Detective

It was King Rued's birthday. The great and near great of Washington were gathered at the Egyptian Legion. Champagne flowed. Pate de fois gras was swallowed by stately cowagers. Iced caviar slipped down the throats of slim maidens. Members of the Cabinet passed from dowager to debutante.

Tall, stately semi-bald Homer Cummings, Attorney General, towered above them all. Suddenly up to him came charming Mrs. Russell Bennett, former wife of Rear Admiral Frederic R. Harris.

"General," she whispered excitedly, "I want to tell you something."

The tall Attorney General stooped over.

"General, there's a man over there I want you to watch."

"Where?" asked the Attorney General, expecting a kidnapping report.

"Over there," she breathed. "The other day in the Piggy Wiggle I saw him steal a pound of butter."

Mrs. Bennett pointed to one of Washington's well-known but impetuous artists.

Red-Tape

Louis Ruppel, one-time New York newspaperman, now Deputy Commissioner of Narcotics, believes there is too much red-tape in the government. He tells this story to prove his point.

Recently, narcotic agents captured a large consignment of illicit drugs. It occurred to Louey that they would be used for medical purposes in army hospitals, are calling an assistant, he directed him to get in touch with the War Department and have a truck sent for the stuff.

"But that's not the way such things are handled, Commissioner," the clerk admonished. "You have to write a letter to the Secretary of War, and then he sends it thru the regular channels."

"Rats," observed Louey. "Who is the officer in the War Department who has charge of such matters? I'll phone him and get the thing disposed of in a few minutes."

Louey called, but the matter was not disposed of in a few minutes. "We'd like very much to get those drugs for our hospitals," the officer replied, "but I have no authority to send a truck after them. You have to write the Secretary of War, who will communicate with the Quartermaster Department."

"I'm sorry we can't send a truck without instructions," was the answer. "What you do is write a letter to the Secretary of War, and then he'll communicate with us, and—"

"Never mind, never mind," interjected the weary Louey. "I (Continued on Page Five)

YOUTH ADMITS SHOOTING TWO

Father and Step-mother Slain 'Because They Quarrelled,' He Says.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Breaking down after hours of grilling, Ralph Eddy, 17, today confessed to the murders of his father and step-mother "because of their constant quarreling over little things," police announced here this morning.

The alleged confession of the youth was made to Chief of Police John Britton, following his capture late last night at Dunbar, near here. The youth had been hunted since September 11 when the bodies of his parents, the Rev. James Frank Eddy, 40, and Mrs. Bertie Eddy, 33, were found at Trace Fork, a small community located 40 miles from Charleston.

Begrimed with coal dust and his clothes tattered and torn, Eddy was apprehended last night by two men who recognized him from newspaper pictures.

When he was brought before Chief of Police Britton, the youth defiantly refused to talk. Finally, however, he broke down under a barrage of constant grilling and declared in an oral confession, Britton said, that his parents had quarreled constantly and "it got on my nerves."

Relating the boy's alleged confession, Britton said Eddy told how he awakened at 3:30 o'clock the morning of the slaying and crept to his parent's bedroom and put the muzzle of a shotgun against his father's head.

Mrs. Eddy awakened and ran screaming from the room, according to the story, and the boy shot at her "once or twice" and then followed her to a field near the house where he beat her with the gun.

OF JUVENILES

Groups of Boys and Girls Loitering on Streets After Night Make Pathetic Situation.

(AN EDITORIAL)

A situation exists in uptown Circleville that should be corrected. Numerous complaints have been heard of the great number of juvenile loiterers who frequent the business district especially on Sunday evening. Groups of boys and girls, none of whom are more than 16 years of age, are found huddled together on street corners and in store vestibules. Apparently the practice, or habit, whichever you care to call it, has been continuing unaltered for quite awhile.

No loitering signs have been placed in and about the City building, at the instigation of the County Board of Visitors, but these signs, too, are unobserved.

It seems that police and juvenile officers, or whoever is responsible for the young people of the city, would take some kind of action to break up the practice. The situation was an exaggerated one Sunday evening with pedestrians forced to elbow their way through the groups, even in front of the City Hall.

It is believed the occupants went to sleep.

The automobile rolled 25 feet before catching fire.

Officers McCrady, Smith and Fitzpatrick investigated the wreck.

ATHENS, Oct. 18.—Investigation was started today by Coroner L. F. Jones into the death of a 12-year-old girl and the injury of four of her chums when they were struck by an automobile as they were walking along a road near here yesterday.

Reasons Given for Germany's Withdrawal Claimed Invalid

REGRET EXPRESSED

U. S. Seeks to Continue Important Session

GENEVA, Oct. 16.—The reasons given by Germany for her precipitate withdrawal from the disarmament conference were ruled invalid today by the general committee, which then voted to adjourn until October 28.

The commission formally proved a letter written by Henderson, chairman of the conference, for communication to German Foreign Minister Konstantin Von Neurath.

The letter expressed regret at Germany's withdrawal from the conference which I cannot accept as valid. The reasons were as follows:

1. That the conference cannot achieve its desired results.

2. That heavily armed nations are solely to blame for Germany's withdrawal.

3. That it is impossible for Germany to attain her desired arms equality under present circumstances.

GENEVA, Oct. 18.—The States want the conference to continue many's abandonment of the League of Nations.

This was the official American position, pressed in a letter sent by Norman H. Davis, Ambassador at Large.

Cecil, confirming a statement by President Roosevelt, a disarmament demonstration which the British Nations leader was making.

The letter was submitted to the conference.

In his letter to Lord Curzon, stated that the message in question had been received from many's withdrawal, and that it had been sent after this event, it doubtless would have been somewhat differently.

STATE TO ASK WELFARE FUND

Four Millions For Building Welfare Department Buildings Asked.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Plans of the state welfare department to ask for funds to finance a $40,000 building project, the money to be repaid over a period of years, will be ready for submission to Washington next week. Darrell Jones, assistant state welfare director, said today.

Should the plan be approved it will provide funds to complete a building program of the welfare department that has been lying dormant for several years due to lack of funds.

Jones said the program calls for the construction of an institution feeble-minded at Apple Creek consisting of an administration building and a number of cottages. The project would entail an outlay of $1,000,000.

Funds will also be sought for the erection at the Delaware Industrial School for Girls of two cottages at an estimated cost of $300,000.

Other building projects to be financed by federal funds include the addition of four cottages to the Hawthorn Farm, Cleveland State Hospital, at a cost of $400,000; erection of two cottages at the Dayton State Hospital at a cost of $300,000, and $500,000 in new buildings and improvements at the Athens State Hospital.

Presnell Thorn In Boston Side

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Glenn Presnell, late of the University of Nebraska, leading a spirited attack, the Portsmouth Spartans tossed back the Braves at Boston, Sunday, a 13-0 score. Twenty fans witnessed the game and Presnell's performance.

He threw a 45-yard pass to Portsmouth's touchback in the second period, booted a point from placement, then added two field goals in the third period to give the Ohioans their margin.

Presnell's fumble early in the game took away Boston's only scoring opportunity.

Chicago's Bears by scoring a field goal and safety in the final period defeated the Chicago Cardinals 12-9, Sunday. Joe Lillard, colored flash, put the Cardinals out in front in the second period with a 50-yard dash for a touchdown. He then placekicked a field goal to make the half end 9-0 in his team's favor.

A touchdown by Johnsons on a pass from Molesworth, Manders' kick and Lillard's safety gave the Bears their edge. The game ended with the Bears' fourth victory with a 13-0 lead.

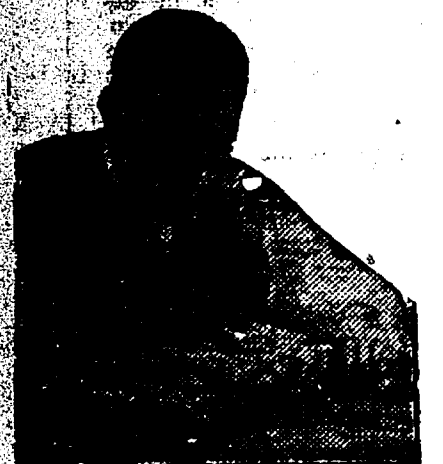

An effective passing attack gave the New York Giants a 56-0 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, Sunday, at New York. Harry Smith did nearly all the heavy lifting.

Benny Friedman and Shipwreck Kelly combined efforts to turn the Cincinnati Bengals, Sunday, by a 27-0 count. Kelly ran 70 yards for a touchdown while the other three were results of Friedman's bullet passes.

Green Bay scored at will to trounce Pittsburgh, 47-0, at Green Bay Sunday. Monnett and Goldenberg led the Packers attack.

Actress Undergoes Appendix Operation

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Stricken suddenly, Jean Harlow, platinum-blond film star, today was reported to be in "highly satisfactory" condition following an emergency operation for appendicitis.

Miss Harlow attended Saturday's football game between St. Mary's and the University of Southern California, but Saturday night at dinner complained of illness.

She underwent the operation at 4 o'clock yesterday morning after the ailment had been diagnosed.

Miss Harlow was married a few weeks ago at Yuma, Ariz., to Harold G. Rosson, Hollywood film cameraman, and the operation upset plans for a honeymoon this month in Honolulu.

portance that every effort should be made to achieve it," the letter said.

"The struggle for disarmament must be on a covenant that won't be treated as a scrap of paper."

Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, in an address before delegations to the world peace organization declared:

"It cost 10,000,000 dead and 20,000,000 wounded to bring the league into being.

"It won't break peace with the dead. It won't suffer hope and peace to be killed. It won't let the world be plunged into the barbarism of another war."

Henderson's address was meant as an answer to German's withdrawal, but it failed to place blame entirely on Germany.

"The world situation is grave," he declared, "precisely because the governments delayed too long to reduce armaments."

"As long as nations are free to arm and use arms as they see fit, wars are inevitable."

BOUND TO REDUCTION

He insisted the conference was already bound to an effective reduction and abolition of offensive arms and said that for this reason the world possesses the beginnings of a collective peace system based on the league covenant and the Briand-Kellogg pact.

The government which rejects this is encouraging its citizens to regard war as inevitable, he declared, asserting that "international anarchy" in all countries are identical with those who believe war inevitable.

It was learned reliably, meanwhile, that Premier Mussolini will soon propose a five-power conference, first sounding out the various governments as to their views.

The move is anticipated Thursday or Friday if adjournment of the disarmament conference is pronounced today.

Mussolini is expected not to suggest a meeting place, but it is believed he would accept any other Swiss city.

BUCKEYE TEAM PREPARES FOR MICHIGAN TILT

Ohio Had Easy Time With Vanderbilt While Kipke-men Drub Cornell.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—The serious business of preparing his charges to meet the team he considers one of the strongest in the country occupied Coach Sam Willaman of Ohio State University today as "Michigan Game Week" opened.

"We realize we're meeting a team that hardly knows the meaning of the word defeat, a team that's only lost one game in the last 30," Willaman said today.

The Buckeye mentor, true to his customary practice, had no predictions about the outcome of Saturday's game at Ann Arbor except that it would be a real battle and one of the big games in the nation this week.

The Buckeye Squad was expected to be given a chance to take it rather easy this afternoon, particularly Gailman and Padlow, left-tackle at the end positions, who were "pretty well used up," Willaman said, in the game against Vanderbilt Saturday.

USED STRAIGHT PLAYS

Ohio State, using straight football, displayed plenty of power in defeating the fighting Southern team 20 to 0. The stubborn Vandy line fought for every inch, and twice an Ohio ball-carrier swept around end for a touchdown.

Jack Smith made Ohio's first touchdown in the first quarter, following a long Ohio drive down the field. With Vanderbilt tacklers cleared out of his way by Quarterback Carl Cramer, Smith circled the Commodore's right end for 18 yards and crossed the goal line standing up.

In Gotham Mayoralty Battle

Following the dramatic entrance of Joseph V. McKee into the New York Mayoralty race, the greatest three-cornered battle in the history of the metropolis is predicted by political observers. In one corner is Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany incumbent, who succeeded to the turbulent throne of former Mayor Walker, after McKee had served as acting Mayor for two months. Opposing him is Major Fiorello LaGuardia, former member of Congress, who was defeated by Jimmy Walker in 1929. LaGuardia heads the Fusion ticket, sponsored by Judge Samuel Seabury, inveterate Tammany foe. McKee, in the third corner, opposes both as representatives of different brands of "Bossism," which he promises to eliminate from city government as independent candidate, unaffiliated by any "leader or party of leaders."

NEW BULING AID TO CIDER MAKERS

Beverage is Not Taxable is Put in Loosely Corked Bottles, Jugs

A bottle with a loose cork in it is not sealed. This is the essence of a ruling of the Tax Commission of Ohio that permits the tax-free sale of apple cider in unsealed bottles or jugs.

"Beverages" in sealed containers are subject to a tax of one-half cent on each six ounces of liquid content.

Following a hearing of Ohio Fruit Growers' Association representatives before the Tax Commission of Ohio, it was decided that cider for sale in sealed bottles is taxable.

A sealed bottle was defined as a glass container or other container of a shape and form capable of being closed, stopped, or corked by means of a metal cap, or crown, or any other stopper or device to prevent the escape or entrance of gas.

But a container closed by means of a cork alone is not, by the Tax Commission, considered sealed if the stopper is designed to be removed by hand without breaking or manipulating a special device or covering.

Approximately six million pigs between 25 and 100 pounds, and 200,000 sows soon to farrow, were purchased and slaughtered under the emergency hog marketing program which ended September 29. A half million farmers sold pigs and sows in the five weeks of the marketing plan. Requests from

Washington economists do not agree that shifting of wheat and corn land to pasture and cover crops will increase the production of milk and meats. They say such a shift will lower production.

"Records from various parts of the country," they say, "show conclusively that land in harvested grain and forage crops produces at least twice as much livestock feed as the same land in pasture."

"Since 1890, farmers have reduced the acreage of grazing land 10 per cent and increased acreages of harvested crops 50 per cent. This increase in cultivated land has been largely responsible for increasing production of pork and milk about 50 per cent."

With Warnings Ignored, Eagle's Talons Tighten

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The nether portion of the Blue Eagle is symbolic of the penalties provided for in the National Recovery Act, as demonstrated in the case of Theodore G. Rahutis, restaurant man of Gary, Ind., first to be deprived of the NRA insignia.

H. S. Norton, chairman of the Gary Compliance Board, reported that every one of Rahutis' 40 employees sustained in affidavit form repeated charges that he was violating both the maximum-hour and minimum wage provisions of the President's Agreement he had signed. One employee was required to work 21 hours in 2 days at 14 cents an hour.

REFUSED CONFERENCE

On August 31 he was notified by the local board that "there must be some misunderstanding on your part of the agreement as modified for the restaurant business."

He failed to respond to an invitation to a conference and according to the board, complaints kept pouring in from his employees. In his absence, another notice was handed to Mrs. Rahutis and a third and final formal warning was served on him personally, which read in part: "We hope you welcome this opportunity to make a voluntary statement. If complaints are unfounded, they should be disposed of, so there is no doubt as to your right to the Blue Eagle." All notices were ignored.

National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's telegram to Rahutis said in part: "Even if complaints are not true, your refusal to come forward with some explanation when respectfully asked to do so by your local board indicates you are unwilling to cooperate with the President in his recovery program. Therefore, you will immediately cease displaying the Blue Eagle and surrender any NRA insignia in your possession to the postmaster of Gary. You will refrain from using the Blue Eagle in advertising or otherwise."

Following the first disciplinary action, telegrams were sent to Miss B. Wilmer, proprietor of the Crystal Beauty Shop, and Maurice Rapaport, manager of the Shop-town Market, both of New Rochelle, N. Y., ordering them to surrender their insignia to the postmaster instantly and to make no further display in any manner of the Blue Eagle.

BOOSTED PRICES

Affidavits filed with the compliance board of New Rochelle stated that the owner of the beauty shop had increased prices to her customers 50 per cent, attributing the increases to the NRA, but had actually increased her overhead by only $2 per week, bringing the wages of her two girl employees to $9 per week. The board reported various charges against Rapaport. One affidavit charged him with compelling an employee to work 12 to 13 hours daily during the week and 16 to 17 hours on Fridays and Saturdays for $16 a week. The board had been unable to secure any cooperation from either Miss Wilmer or Rapaport and their findings in both cases were acted upon very promptly by the National Recovery Administration.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

Four hundred and fifty thousand persons walk daily on Forty-second street, according to a bulletin issued recently by the Forty-second Street Property Owners' and Merchants' association. Those who walk on midtown's principal east and west arteries do so from choice, however. Twenty-seven thousand vehicles travel it each day. It is crossed by seven subway lines, four elevated lines, five bus lines, eleven surface lines and on it are four railroad stations. At the west end it is possible to take Hudson river and Sandy Hook boats and excursion boats to almost anywhere, as well as the Weehawken ferry. It even has a subway of its own, the shuttle line connecting Grand Central and Times Square, which carries hundreds of thousands of passengers each day. Repeatedly plans have been submitted for a moving sidewalk between those two points. Still, the 450,000 daily workers are a mere handful. In the space of 12 months, the association reports 242,300,244 tickets for busses, boats, trolleys, subways and elevated lines were sold on Forty-second street.

A million persons, the association figures, live within walking distance of Forty-second street. Counting those who get there by cars and busses, the total is 2,500,000. Within a radius of 100 miles, the population is 12,000,000. Fifty-two thousand persons are employed on Forty-second street and 5,000,000 persons are fed there each year. Forty-second street merchants sell almost anything. Forty-second street is only about 10,500 feet long but it connects New Jersey and Long Island. Taking it all in all, it's quite an important street, in the eyes of the association, at least.

Here's where I score a scoop on the association—at least no mention was made of it in the bulletin. On Forty-second street are a number of theaters. Business being what it is, owners are turning a tidy penny by renting the lobbies to pitchmen. The rentals, according to my informant, run from $300 to $500 a month. Forty-second street, attracts a lot of fliers. Pitchmen do the rest. They work hard and fast, since a rental of $500 a month necessitates a big take. Experts all of them, if there is a dime in the pocket it usually can be extracted.

Like to listen to a high pitch. A high pitch, as explained by my guide, is one where the pitchman gives a more or less learned lecture of more than the usual length. The high pitches indicate considerable education, acquired possibly not in college, but in one way or another. Anyway, they sound learned. Words are cleverly used and the art of suggestion is most highly developed. A touch of mystery is added to the most prosaic subject. The high pitchmen are expert psychologists also. They can size up a crowd in an instant and rarely make a mistake. So dimes come even from unwilling pockets, the rent is made, and so are profits.

Sitting on Europe's Powder Keg

The recent assassination attempt on Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, in which the statesman received two minor wounds, might have been the spark to ignite the blaze of another war in Europe, as did the assassination of the Archduke Francis and his wife, in 1914. At no time in its history has the continent been so ripe for war as at present. Chancellor Hitler, at the head of Nazi-riden Germany, hurled defiance at France with one hand, while seeking to drag Austria into the Reich with the other. France is armed to the teeth and ready for trouble. In Italy, Premier Mussolini gives moral and material support to Dollfuss in his war against German Nazi propaganda, and even peace-loving Holland is preparing to defend her frontiers against a feared German invasion.

DENSMORE SHUTE—Britons gasped and gaped when he won the 1933 British Open over St. Andrews' deceptive fairways and angry bunkers. Golf prophets say Shute will line up with Golf Immortals. Answering a question, Shute recently said: "I have tried all the brands, and long ago found that Camels are milder, and what is even more important to any golfer, they do not jangle the nerves."

TOMMY ARMOUR—Often called "Wizard of the Irons," Armour has won a flock of championships, including the U. S. Open in 1927, the P. G. A. in 1930, the British Open in 1931. Tommy knows his golf and his cigarettes. "What do I think of Camels? They are my brand and have been for years. I smoke a lot but I must be sure that my nerves are healthy and my head is clear—that's why I prefer Camels."

GENE SARAZEN—This great golfer began his winning ways in 1922 when he became U. S. Open Champion. He has been a consistent tournament winner ever since. This year he won his third P. G. A. Championship. On the subject of cigarettes Sarazen says: "I agree with Shute and Armour—I smoke Camels, too. They always turn good—and they never interfere with my nerve control."

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

Men and women whose work and play demand healthy nerves and level heads prefer Camels. Active people agree that they can smoke these fine-flavored, milder cigarettes without fear of jangling their nerves.

Another thing about active people—they are pretty generally steady smokers... And, as anyone who smokes Camels will tell you, you can smoke as many of these cigarettes as you want—and never have a "cigarette" aftertaste. The last cigarette at night tastes as good as the first in the morning, if you smoke Camels.

Try a package of Camels today... Enjoy the superior flavor of their costlier tobaccos. If you are a steady smoker you will appreciate the fact that Camels never get on your nerves, never tire your taste.

Crooked Lawyers

WAR on racketeering lawyers is planned by the department of justice. The attack will be part of the drive against crime made by the federal government.

The link between unscrupulous members of the legal profession and the underworld is one of the main sources of strength. Announcing the intention of his department to break it, Attorney General Cummings shows that he is serious.

One of the most important elements of predatory crime, he said, is the man who is the man in the middle, in which some members of the legal profession cooperate with the underworld.

He did not intend his statement as a reflection upon lawyers, but as a legitimate acceptance of the defense of criminals. A man accused of crime is entitled to best legal defense he is able to employ. The fact that his case is taken by a lawyer does not subject his defender to legitimate criticism.

The department's campaign is intended to bring to justice those members of the legal profession who have criminal relations with racketeers. There are many of this kind. They advise racketeers and other criminals how to proceed in the commission of crimes in order to minimize the chances of detection and arrest. They then share in the proceeds of such crimes.

Bar associations generally are jealous of the high standing of the profession they represent and wish to keep it clean. It is impossible, though, for them to weed out all racketeers from their membership unless diligent they may be. The fact that the federal government now is preparing to step in with its dusting cloth nevertheless will impress them with the duty of exercising even greater efforts in the future in keeping their house clean. The task is one that needs constant attention if it is to be performed properly.

Family Cash

FORTY-ONE per cent of the wealth of the United States is in the hands of women, financial statisticians estimate. This includes real estate, stocks, bonds and cash in bank. That places womanhood as an important "prospect" for banks and investment brokers.

Theoretically, then, 59 per cent of the wealth is owned by men. Theoretically it is used adversely, for if pay checks issued to husbands and bank accounts in their names were credited to the wives, who really control them, the percentage would be reserved.

Poor man! He is in a sorry condition that the figures indicate, disconcerting though they are. How far off is the time when husband will be arguing indignantly with their wives for a generous allowance, instead of doling money out to their wives in grudging spirit.

Uxorial reaction to this possibility is that it would serve the "old tightwad" good. The housewife's chronic complaint is that men will never learn that it takes more than cigar money to operate the house.

No doubt modern conditions have created new causes for domestic strife and divorce, but the good old reliable home-wrecker is the rise of vaudeville and the ultimate decline of vaudeville in favor of the motion picture.

THAT'S MY BOY!

by FRANCIS WALLACE
AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

SYNOPSIS

Born of humble parents, Mom and Pop, in a tiny Middle West factory town, Tommy Randolph, "always different from other children," becomes a high school football sensation both to the delight and disdain of his hard-working family. Big universities are bidding for him with the chances favoring Thorndyke, a "millionaire's college" in the East. His father, veteran glassworker and staunch Democrat, is pondering Tommy's athletic-scholastic future....

CHAPTER SEVEN

Pop made up his mind slowly about Thorndyke. He pretended to be weighing it pro and con. "I don't know whether I want you among all them capitalists' sons," Pop declared.

Tommy laughed. "Besides," Pop continued, "I ain't gonna have you mixed up with them crooks in Wall Street—the first thing you know you'll be like the rest of them, trying to get all the money in your hands."

"You said it, Pop," Tommy laughed, slapping Pop on the back. "In the meantime, Mom, how about a buck—got to take Dot to the movie tonight."

The scamp knew Mom liked him to go around with Dorothy Whitney and that he could get money from her easier that way. Sometimes she knew he wasn't going with Dorothy at all because Mom passed him in front of the poolroom with the boys. Mom didn't like the poolroom but still all she guessed it wasn't really bad. Boys were full of life and they had to put their time in where there was life.

After Tommy went out Pop sat on the front steps a long time like he was studying it out.

"Why don't you mention it to Charlie Whitney?" Mom asked.

Pop snorted. "I can run my own house."

Then he pretended to be thinking it out again but the first thing Mom knew his head was nodding and he was asleep. Pop was as tickled as she was but he just wouldn't show it. She knew him.

But just the same Mom was a little bit worried about it. Thorndyke was way off some place and if Tommy didn't have as good clothes as the rest and all that maybe it wouldn't be so nice.

So the next time Mom saw Charlie Whitney down street she asked him what he thought. Charlie looked at her rather oddly but he was very nice about it and asked her in for an ice cream. A funny little glow went over Mom as she sat there with Charlie Whitney; he was getting heavy now and had glasses and his hair was thinning but Mom couldn't help remembering when she used to see Charlie in Davis's like this with his crowd when he was running around town before he was married.

"Elizabeth," he said, "I'm glad you asked me." Charlie's voice was smooth and low and nice to listen to. It helped make people like him and trust him because they didn't feel Charlie wanted anything they had; and of course Mom had practically been raised with him.

"You see, Elizabeth, Thorndyke is pretty far from home and Tom will meet a different sort of people."

"You mean the millionaires?" Mom asked, hesitatingly, because Charlie was a millionaire, too, or close to it.

"In a way," Charlie answered, looking in his glass; "but it isn't just money. Some people make a great point out of the fact that their fathers and grandfathers

"Don't let Tommy forget," said Mr. Whitney, the Town Tycoon, to Mom, "that this football glory will last only a few years."

were important. Of course that doesn't mean much to us back here but they think it's something big."

Big-heads, Mom thought. Charlie's own mother was one; but Mom wouldn't say that for the world; she just nodded.

Charlie went on: "Now if he went to a school nearer home like State or Illinois, or Notre Dame or Northwestern, he'd be more with his own kind of people; he'd understand them and they'd understand him."

Charlie looked at her, then. Mom nodded—she knew what he was driving at even if he was trying to spare her feelings; but she was afraid Tommy wouldn't.

"He's so wrapped up on going to Thorndyke," Mom said, "I'm afraid we couldn't stop him. And Tommy's got lots of nerve."

Charlie smiled a little. "Yes—Tommy's a hard boy to stop, all right. I wouldn't say he had an inferiority complex."

"But he'd be improving himself, wouldn't he?" Mom asked. She was puzzled; if it was anybody else but Charlie Whitney she'd think he didn't want Tommy to get his chance but wanted him to stay poor.

Charlie nodded. "I suppose—but don't let him forget, Elizabeth, that this football glory will last only a few years. He mustn't forget that the important thing is to study hard and take advantage of his chances so that, when football is over, he'll know something."

Mom did not mention to Pop what Charlie had said; if she said a word about big heads Pop would be sure to start on the capitalists and high hats and what right did any of them have to look down on his son because if it wasn't for the workmen where would the country be; and he might work himself up into a rage about it and try to stop Tommy from going and that would only start real trouble.

Tommy was going to Thorndyke anyhow and down in her heart Mom knew she wanted him to go. Nobody was too good for her Tommy and she had confidence he would show all of them. He was entitled to get out of Athens where all of his people on both sides had always lived and Mom wanted him to have his chance—wanted it rather fiercely, she discovered.

On her way to Sidney's, Mom stopped to look in the window of Joseph's at a suit which she thought would be real nice for Pop. It was dark blue with a little pin stripe running through and quite stylish, too; although Mom was afraid it was too stylish because Pop would object enough about buying a good suit that wasn't black and would say she was trying to make him too tony for a workman.

Next door to Joseph's was Julius's. Mom moved over to glance slyly in the window. Often she had looked in Julius's windows before but never with the daring which now possessed her. Julius was expensive and charged two prices for everything but his goods were mighty fine; there was a bolt of brown crepe de chene which she thought would make up awful nice; but there was no price on it and Mom was afraid to go in and ask because once she got in there she couldn't come out without buying something because they would think she was cheap and she couldn't have Tommy Randolph's mother called cheap—Mrs. Flannigan's daughter worked in Julius's and it would get around in no time.

With a little sigh Mom walked away from the crepe de chene and started down the street to Sidney's. She had got her brown noddin there the same time Pop had got his black suit and she guessed another brown would fit the bill because Pop always liked her in brown from the time they first knew each other because Mom's hair had been brown; she looked at it now in a window as she passed; it was duller and had begun to streak up with grey; this was no news to Mom and she believed in letting things as they were and saw no sense in middle-aged women trying to look too young.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Alice Brady, Jackie Cooper, Jimmy Durante, Frank Morgan, Fay Tompkinson, Madge Evans—brilliant names of Broadway and Hollywood are on parade at the

ALICE BRADY

Cliftona Theatre, where "Broadway to Hollywood," spectacular cavalcade of the theatre, is now showing.

The great Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pageant of the stage, mingling poignant drama with dazzling pageantry, tells the story of three generations of trouper, the rise of vaudeville and the ultimate decline of vaudeville in favor of the motion picture.

Triumphs and Heartbreaks

In this intensely human drama of the loves and joys, the triumphs and heartbreaks of a vaudeville family whose career is traced over a period of fifty years, a touching narrative is interwoven with colorful spectacle as the audience from time to time sees what is going on upon the stage as well as behind the scenes.

AT THE GRAND

"I Loved You Wednesday," new Fox Film production, now playing at the Grand Theatre, will go down in history not only as unusual entertainment, but also as the picture which brought new potential stars to the front.

Victor Jory won his chance at a starring role in "The Devil in Love," because of his outstanding work in this adaptation of the New York stage success of the same name, and June Vladek, beautiful blonde dancer, who stands out so conspicuously in a minor part that she has been given featured billing.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Adams, N. Court-st., left Saturday for a week's visit at the Century of Progress exposition, Chicago.

Laughing Around the World

With IRVIN S. COBB

The Most Unkindest Cut of All

By IRVIN S. COBB

ON THE stage of a music hall in the East End of London a memory wizard with a pronounced cockney accent was offering an exhibition of his skill. In response to questions from the audience he gave, off-hand, and promptly, the dates of historic events, the distance from the earth to the moon, and other facts and figures without limit. It was quite evident from the language of some of his statements that the performer was a most patriotic Briton. Invariably, when mentioning a great Englishman or a great English achievement, his voice rose exultantly.

Sitting well down the front were two Americans. They figured that the wizard must have accomplices in the house to ask him questions prepared beforehand. To find out whether or not the performer did have the powers of memory he boasted and with a view also to arousing his patriotic fervor to a still higher pitch if possible, one of the Yankees called out:

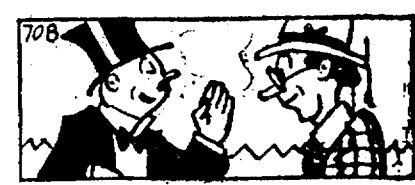

"Professor, please tell me what memorable event occurred on July the Fourth, 1776?"

Without a moment's hesitation the professor shot back his reply: "A h' infernal h'outrage, sir!" he shouted.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was an American millionaire that made a trip to Europe last summer, and some of his friends was talking to him about it the other day. They were asking his advice about where to stop and what to see. Somebody says, "Say, Rogers, ain't it awful in Europe?" "Yeah, it's awful all right, but how do you mean?" "Why, they're all so hard up over there, I heard." "Oh, I heard up. Well, they was before I went over. But I caught it from them just as they was getting over it, when I was ready to sail for home. They can't be hard up any more."

ANSWERS, QUERIES CONCERNING NRA

Q. What are the rules concerning display of the Blue Eagle in newspaper advertising?
A. A newspaper may not accept advertisements carrying the Blue Eagle until the names of advertisers actually are posted on the honor roll at post offices or until the advertiser produces a receipt or other evidence from the postmaster.

Q. When a chain store located in a town of less than 2,500 population has only two employees, are such employees subject to limitation of work hours?
A. No; because the manager signs the agreement and certificate of compliance for his own particular branch. Such employees, however, must have their wages increased at least 20 per cent.

Q. Are chambers of commerce expected to cooperate under the President's Reemployment Agreement?
A. Yes; chambers of commerce are expected to sign the PRA and comply with hour and wage provisions. If one desires a stay of PRA provisions, approval must be obtained from the local compliance board.

Q. How has the organization of compliance board affected PRA, State and local advisor, boards?
A. Not at all. Compliance boards were named on recommendation of State and local boards. Both State and local advisory boards continue as such.

Q. Under what circumstances may maintenance employees be exempt from the maximum-hour provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement?
A. When they are in fact emergency maintenance employees. "Maintenance" as used in PRA and substitutions thereof is synonymous with "keep in repair."

Gas Poisoning a Menace To the Auto "Tinkerer"

Dr. Copeland Warns of the Danger of Running Car Motors in a Closed Garage

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

NOT LONG ago I wrote on the subject of gas poisoning. It was pointed out that many serious cases of gas poisoning could be traced to leaky coal and gas stoves, gas tubing, gas jets and defective flues. I suggested that this danger could be prevented by the timely inspection of stoves and pipes and the prompt repair of all defective parts.

It was stated that gas poisoning is caused by the inhalation of a deadly gas called carbon monoxide. This is found in combination with natural gas, coal gas, illuminating gas and in the exhaust of gasoline motors. I described how rapidly this gas attacked the human body. It is distressing to learn that deaths from this cause exceed all other deaths from poisons combined.

Deadly Monoxide Gas

Serious and fatal cases of carbon monoxide poisoning are often caused by the inhalation of the poisonous vapors from the exhaust of an automobile. It is said that sufficient poisonous gas is found in the exhaust of automobiles that travel on Fifth avenue to annihilate all of the inhabitants of Manhattan. But fortunately the gas is dispersed in the air and the poisonous effects are neutralized.

But when a motor is kept running indoors, as in a closed garage, the gas cannot escape. It will overcome all who come in contact with it. In most instances its inhalation leads to sudden death.

Many men like to tinker with their cars. Often weather conditions do not permit work outdoors, and it is done indoors. It is dangerous to work on a car in a poorly ventilated garage. I cannot overemphasize this danger, and warn you of the peril of inhaling the fumes of the exhaust.

Danger Can Be Averted

Never work on your car if the garage doors are closed. Always open the doors and windows regardless of how cold it may be outdoors. A good plan is to securely attach a hose pipe to the end of the exhaust pipe and lead the hose outdoors. This will assure you of safety from the carbon monoxide from the exhaust of the motor.

I am glad to say that New York state and many other states realize the dangers of gas poisoning by automobiles. The department of public health constantly warns of this peril. The fatalities could be reduced to a minimum if all car owners would take the necessary precautions.

It is when we get careless about things that we have trouble. We must be on the alert all the time. It is true of the automobile, particularly, that it has brought mankind many new problems. Gas poisoning is one of them.

In Hapsburg Restoration Move

ARCHDUKE OTTO CHANCELLOR DOLLFUS

The friendly reception of a personal appeal to his countrymen by Archduke Franz Josef Otto, son of the late Emperor Charles of Austria, plus the report that Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria favors a restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy have caused speculation in European capitals as to whether or not the 20-year-old Archduke will return to Austria as "Emperor and King." For many years Otto's mother, Empress Zita, has sought support for her son, and now with Austria's "Little Napoleon" reputedly on her side, she seems to be meeting with some success. Premier Mussolini, of Italy, also is reported to look with favor upon the restoration idea, and it is said the Vatican would willingly bless the event as a checkmate to the Nazi threat against Austria.

other higher-ups is something like this:

Industry is being forced to give up its hit-and-miss, laissez-faire policy. The Barons of Big Business are being forced to fix minimum hours, cut out unscrupulous competition, in some cases agree on price-fixing.

Therefore organized labor has got to do the same.

The day when labor chiefs can row between themselves over jurisdiction is gone. The Barons of Labor can no more have regional disputes now than the Barons of Big Business.

The day of craft unions with their extremely involved competition also is over. Unions have got to be on the "industrial" plan—covering an entire industry. This may cut down the number of cushy jobs for antiquated labor union chiefs, but it has got to come.

And if these labor changes do not come, the Government may step in just as it is stepping into the employers' field. That is what General Johnson's speech meant.

Another statistical note: An average of 6,000 persons a week pay a dollar each to be hoisted to the top of the Empire State building tower.

Irvin S. Cobb was talking with a gentleman whose name is well known and who is also well known as a talker. "Is your son going to follow the month-prints of his father?" asked Cobb. And the reply is not a matter of record.
